“ My Sweet brother Jef...My heart is shattered, for the lifetime we didn't get, for the tears, love and kindered spirits we shared, for the oh so many conversations we've had over the years since we connected. I am so very grateful for being able to know your sweet soul, for knowing I had 2 more brothers aside from our oldest brother Peter...now you two can know each other in Heaven with our Dad, my Son Sam, and Jesus. God bless you dear brother, I miss you so much...Until we meet in Heaven, I Love You, your big Sis, Donna

“ Sweetest little cousin, I remember so clearly your Dad tossing you into the air and making you giggle when you were just tiny.You look so much like him now. It is my deepest sadness that I never met you again as an adult but Grandma made sure that you were always a part of us. I feel so much gratitude for your family who loved and nurtured you over the years. Thank you for connecting with Donna and easing her heart. We will meet again. With much love and sadness, cousin Jennifer.

“ I only knew Jeff for a little while but we hit it off immediately due to our shared hometown of Uniondale.
He was always smiling and always positive.
What a loss.
RIP Jeff. I'm sorry I didn't get to know you longer.

“ Jeff thank you for all your hard work you did for us at our farm. You had an amazing work ethic, anytime there was a problem you were the first person there to give Marie a helping hand. It's going to be difficult finding someone to take over all the little carpentry projects around the property. You were truly talented in your craft and that is something very rare in this day and age. You will be missed. Thank you for everything you did for us.

“ We met over a cup of coffee at his favorite local corner store, The Freehold Country Store just three years ago.... in the same line of work we were & we immediately became friends soon thereafter. Striving to make his love of creative carpentry into a self owned business, JD Creative Carpentry was given life & named after his beloved four legged friend, Jimmy who he called JD.

Jef soon became a ‘hot commodity’ as those of us whom he did work for once he started working & crafting his way through the property of Gather Green, a beautiful upstate NY wedding & venue destination to which Jef took great pride. He often spoke of it's owners, Jackie & Alma with the biggest of smiles and referred to them fondly as his girls, ‘they love me’ he would say.... Rightly so if you ever get the chance to see the beautiful work he did for them.

His creative mind crafted everything from picnic tables to gorgeous woodwork sculptures & artwork. Oh, and the birdhouses, they were simply amazing.

One of his latest projects was his own hot tub!

Jef was in the process of finishing a very personal project for me that he took many hours to design on paper and bring to life, a beautiful porch/gazebo.... I have no words for the design and detail on it and all his unfinished works that to me, will not soon be replicated. His longtime friend Jay & I said it out loud just the other day as I looked up and thought aloud, ‘really Jef? How are we to complete that roof as you would?’.... Everything he crafted was and had to be perfect.....

Right Lisa? LOL

If you knew Jef, you knew his laughter, his talent and smile was building more & more with every project.... 20/20 was to be our year, as we both lived the #thestruggleisreal motto as we continued to build each other up in our dreams and businesses.

Still and I’m sure will continue to be for quite the while, so surreal not to see his Green/Silver GMC pulling into the shoppe or the wave of his hand behind the wheel passing each other on our way to our prospective jobs in and around town.

The roof of his last project for me lays on the ground, it was to be lifted and the final touches done, ‘just need 4/5 strong guys to boost it up with Ts’ was one of our last conversations... Jef was adamant in closing and finishing his work down to the smallest detail and it had to be perfect as if it was his very own. Like minded, we always agreed, everything you do has your name on it.

Well my friend, much like a brother, you certainly left your good name on so many beautiful works of art and may you rest easy with the same well deserved pride here, there until we meet again.

Rest In Peace My Friend, I will miss you dearly,
Love The Gypsy

PS JD is missing you but in the best hands. I finally met that guy you boasted about being one of your good friends who always took care to get you thru and help you build up your arsenal of tools to create all that you did.
