“ "Old man Joe" as my 4 year old son affectionately called you. He thought you were so cool. You got old before your time but you were still young at heart. Besides being the best chef around you were the best host and life coach to everyone and anyone. You were a true champion because you championed everyone. You worked harder than anyone I ever met even while you were extremely sick. When I moved back to Cairo, I hadn't seen you in about 15 years but you made me feel like I was "home" and never left. You were stronger than cancer. You kicked cancer's ass. You were too strong to give up or give in. My only thought is that you must have made a "deal" with the man upstairs because you wanted to see your mom. Enjoy heaven my brother, give mom a kiss and give my father a hug for me. Hopefully I'll see you up there ❤️

Love ya.

“ Joe and I were always joking around. I would tease him about being my secret man lol. He was so caring for me when he was around me. Always making sure I was safe when I would walk home from Mark and Gigi's. I would tell him I would be ok but he would insist on walking or driving me around the corner home. He always had a hug and I love you mam maw. He was my grandson and I will miss him so much and the stories he would tell. I Loved him.
