“ Bob Clark is my uncle. He was a very special person. Underneath his gruff exterior, he was a loving, kind, and generous man...although he would never admit it! He was so smart and knew everything about sports and music. He could name any song playing and tell you the title and artist. Our family was blessed when he and his sons Scott and Robbie came into our lives. He was a great Dad and awesome husband who would always kiss my Aunt Nancy after dinner and thank her for a delicious meal. His love for her was evident whenever he looked at her. He adored her. He treated my cousins Christine and Donnie the same as his children. He was strict, but loving and fair. I admired him for his honesty...he always said what he felt and didn't mince words. He was a hero who served in Viet Nam. Uncle Bob would have been surprised to see all the people who came to his wake and funeral and so very proud of the send off he received. I wonder if he knew how many people loved and cared about him...I think he would be surprised because he was a very humble guy. I am so very lucky to have had him in my life and will always cherish the many memories he is a part of. I love him and will think of him and miss him every day. He fought his battle with cancer to the very end with courage. He didn't complain or pity himself. His biggest concern was for his wife, children, and grandchildren who were his life and his greatest joy. Until we meet again rest in peace Uncle Bob! XO
